FROM VIETNAMESE TURMERIC TO GLOBAL WELLNESS

Turmeric has been part of Vietnamese life for generations — a familiar natural ingredient deeply rooted in our cuisine and traditional approaches to wellness. Yet we believe that the potential of turmeric can go far beyond tradition when advanced through science and technology.

This belief has shaped Fujiko's journey for more than a decade: researching, developing, and unlocking the value of Vietnamese turmeric, with a particular focus on Curcuminoids — the key bioactive compounds that define the distinctive value of turmeric.

Sourcing carefully selected turmeric from Vietnam, Fujiko applies advanced extraction technologies and product development expertise to transform the natural value of turmeric into high-quality, convenient solutions for modern life. Our Curcumin Fujiko VN beverage is one of the products born from this journey.

We are not simply creating products from turmeric. We are building sustainable value from Vietnamese turmeric — for consumers, for our growing regions, and for partners who share our vision.

And we believe this journey can reach far beyond Vietnam.

Fujiko is expanding toward global markets and seeking partners to develop innovative products, build new markets, and bring the value of Vietnamese turmeric to consumers around the world.
